The aftermath of the "borrowing" of a horse and wagon from Robert Arnold between 4 and 7 o'clock last Saturday morning was developed in the Police Court this morning when Alexander Brown and James Cook, two white youths, who had been arrested by Officers Henderson and Nicholson, were made to face the bar charged with stealing chickens. The youths, according to their statements, procured a jug of whisky while on the old fair grounds last Friday night, drank themselves drunk and later, "in order to obtain shelter from the rain," proceeded to the extreme northern boundary of the city (Madison street between Washington and Columbus) and entered a hen house. Here they say they became oblivious to their surroundings or further movements, although later either in a somnambulistic state or during their waking moments, the evidence and confessions of the accused showed that they took sixteen fowls from their place of shelter and fourteen from another house, placed them in a box, procured the horse and wagon, proceeded toward Washington, stopped at Del Ray where they purchased sandwiches and reached the capital city where they disposed of the chickens at twelve cents a pound. It was shown that one of the chickens had been broken open with an axe. One of Brown's relatives reimbursed the owners of the chickens after the youths were arrested. Justice Caton, after hearing the evidence, was disposed to deal as leniently as possible with the offenders, it being the first time that either had been charged with a serious offense. He therefore imposed a fine of $20 upon each, with the understanding that should they be again convicted of larceny he would impose a jail sentence with the fine.

Sent on to Grand Jury.

Among the passengers on an electric train which reached this city shortly after twelve o'clock last Saturday night was Mr. J. K. Schwartz, formerly treasurer of the road. Mr. Schwartz left the train at the corner of Prince and Fairfax streets and proceeded towards his home on Fairfax street, between Prince and Duke. Upon reaching the southeast corner of Prince and Fairfax streets a man sprang from the shadow of the old factory and seized him. Mr. Schwartz used his cane in defending himself, and while doing so demanded that his assailant "get away." These words attracted the attention of Mr. Carey Mills and his son Hubert, who had arrived in the city on the train with Mr. Schwartz, and they ran to the latter's rescue. The assailant started to run, but he was overtaken half a square east by young Mr. Mills, by which time the latter's father had reached his son's side, and they took the man in custody. He proved to be John Ryan, who had also been a passenger on the train. Ryan was escorted to the station house. He was brought before Justice Caton in the Police Court this morning, when the facts in connection with the case were given as stated above. Ryan in his version of the affair said he proceeded toward Fairfax street after leaving the train, he having a message to deliver, when he encountered Mr. Schwartz, who began striking at him with his cane. Justice Caton sent Ryan on to the grand jury. Mr. Schwartz broke his cane while resisting Ryan.

Police Court.

[Justice H. B. Caton presiding.] The following cases were disposed of this morning: Alexander Brown and James Cook, arrested by Officers Henderson and Nicholson charged with stealing chickens, were fined $20 each. A young man named Smith, arrested by Officers Henderson and Jones charged with drunken and disorderly conduct, was fined $5. James Baker and Ella Jones, both colored, arrested by Officer Talbot for trespass, were fined $2.50 each. John Ryan, charged with assault and attempt to rob J. K. Schwartz, was sent on to the grand jury. Benjamin Hinton, colored, arrested by Officers Garvey and Bell charged with disorderly conduct and fighting, had his case continued. William Poindecker, arrested by Officers Knight and Nicholson charged with assault on Alexander Bogle, had his case continued, the complainant being unable to appear on account of his injuries. Ella West, colored, charged with stealing needles, was dismissed. A colored girl named Hamilton, charged with petit larceny, was dismissed, her mother promising to correct her.

Men's Meeting Tonight.

Mr. Charles F. Nesbit, who will deliver the address at the men's meeting in the Second Presbyterian Church tonight at 8 o'clock, is one of Washington's progressive business men. He is deeply interested in the uplifting of the young men of that city, and is one of the directors of the Young Men's Christian Association of that city. During the past winter he has been leading what was called the "Twentieth Century Club" of that organization, which has been meeting weekly for debate on the vital problems confronting the young men of today, and the men of this club have found his leadership in these debates extremely helpful and interesting. The Presbyterian Brotherhood held that they are especially fortunate in securing Mr. Nesbit to speak to the men of Alexandria on the great question, "The Relation of Christianity to Modern Business Methods."

Disagreeable Sunday.

The cold weather of last Saturday was followed by snow late in the afternoon, which continued throughout most of the night.
